HORSE NOTES.

Mr. Thomas P. Wallace, owner of the trotting celebrities Henry, Coleman, Heatherbloom and others, purchased on Friday last, of a Mr. Bashaw, the sorrel gelding Joe, sometimes called the "Callfornia norse." Joe won the three minute and 2:50 purses at Mystie Park, Boston, last week. The three funnate purse he won in three straight heats, Joe trotting them in 2:25%, 2:25 and 2:25%, beating Beven good norses. The next day (October 4) he won the 2:50 purse, against a field of four horses. We learn that he was bred in Virginia, but of what strain we are not informed. Mr. Wallace paid the sum of $10,000 for him, and he will no doubt prove a brilliant addition to his fine stable of trotters. The Kalamazoo Trotting Association have sustained the protest of Mr. William Humpbreys, the owner of Judge Pullerton, against the horse Abe, who trotted in the $10,000 premium three-minute purse in company with Judge Brigham (who won the ra et, Judge Pullerton and others, Mr. Humpbreys, protested against Abe on the ground that he trotted and won a race at Readfield, Me., in October, 1869, winning three heats out of four, one of which was in add in 2:46. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

TURSDAY, Oct. 10-6 P. M. On 'Change to-day wheat was higher, but unset On Change to-day whoat was higher, out unset-tied. The trade is still perpiexed by the complica-tions arising out of the interruption of business by the Chicago fire, and there is little disposition to undertake engagements of any considerable extent. Flour was more directly affected, and advanced fully ten cents a barrel. The cotton market was quiet and steady.

IN WALL STREET speculation was rife as to the injury inflicted upor the various financial and commercial interests of New York. It is definitely ascertained that at least three of the city insurance companies have been bankrupted, and it is probable that several others will be so much impaired as to be compelled to observe the law requiring either a fresh subscription of capital or a reorganization upon the basis of what will remain after paying all losses. The wholesale merchants are also keenly apprehensive of trouble in consequence of the large stocks of dry goods, boots and shoes, hardware and other merchandise sold to Chicago during the sum mer and beginning of the fall, for which in the usual course of business they were not to receive payment for periods ranging from thirty days to six months. These various matters are more fully dis-cussed in special articles elsewhere in our columns, and we invite attention to them in view of the ab sorbing interest which they now possess for all branches of the community. There was no abatement to-day in the pressure for money, and the stringency was felt most severely among the stock brokers, whose needs in this respect were the occasion of much of the demoralization which prevailed on the Stock Exchange. The banks, as a general thing, refuse fur-ther accommodation to this class of borrowers and favor of the mercantile interest which, in consequence of the inevitable bankruptcy of hundreds of Chicago merchants, is compelled to ask extensions with a hope of being able to tide over present dimonly generous but greatly necessary on the part of the banks, for while there may be the most disaster to resort to extremities. When added to further cautious refusal of private bankers to put out their money, the aggravation of the money readily fancied. With money enough to go around as amply as a few days since the retention of enorcounts by the more timid class of capitalists forced borrowers to pay extravagant rates. The lowest rate was seven per cent, which was readily accepted by lenders on government bonds and by certain private bankers who never ask more, But the supply at this figure was small as compared with the vas needs of the street, and hence the stringency grew worse as the day advanced, and as high as % per of loans at seven per cent, the "commission" law. Later in the day the rate of this "comi fluctuated very often, but eventually left off at % per cent, although it had declined to a very small fraction when it was rumored that Mr. Boutwel would buy an extra amount of bonds at the Subthe money market. The inquiry for funds, while prolonged beyond the usual hour for closing the anks, did not continue to as late an hour as on Monday; for in face of the greater volume o business the brokers worked at their accounts with greater industry, and the last deposits were made, as a general thing, not more than half an hour be-

period as the present are purely nominal. At bank there is of course nothing less than seven per cent,

POREIGN EXCHANGE IRREGULAR AND LOWER, Early in the day loreign exchange was quite firm, for sight bills more particularly, in consequence of private cable telegrams reporting money at six per cent outside of bank in London, but the renewal of the sharp demand for cash gold the renewal of the snarp demand for cash gold later in the day weakened the market, and the leading bankers lowered their rates an eighth for sight and one-quarter per cent for sixty days' sterling, making the difference between the two classes of bills 1% per cent. The following were the quotations at the close of business:—Sterling, sixty days, commercial, 103½ a 108½; good to prime bankers', 108% a 109; short sight, 109% a 110%; a 5.25; Antwerp, 5.30 a 5.23%; Switzerland, 5.28% a 5.23%; Hamburg, 35% a 35%; Amsterdam, 40% a 40%; Frankfort, 40% a 41%; Bremen, 78 a 78%;

GOLD STRONG-113% A 114%. The natural tendency of the gold market reas-serted itself after the pressure of speculative sales made the day previous, and as the fact soon became evident that the oversold condition of the market placed the question of caring for cash gold rather in the hands of the "buils" than with the "bears," there was a steady rally from 113% to 114%, particularly as the London money market was reported active at six per cent, with a considerable decline in American securities. The rumor of an intended extra purchase of bonds to-morrow, by implying that there might be an extra sale of gold on Thursday, led to a reaction of % a % per cent at the close. The course of the verted attention for the time being from the railway bonds, in which class of securities the business today was very light. At the call many of the leading issues were passed over without remark, the Erice and New York Centrals being specially ignored.

The following were the bids made:-

prices were accepted in view of the activity of the money market and in subcipation of large sales from the insurance corporations who have suffered by risks on Chicago property, and who will need the cash to liquidate claims for losses. PANIC IN STOCKS—A RALLY.

Sympathizing directly with the progress of the calamity at Chicago, the stock market, which had closed Monday night with some effort at recovery based on a belief that the fire had been subdued. was thrown into a panic early to-day by the bulletius of the newspapers announcing that at the last accounts the fire was raging with greater severity and that the ill-fated city was doomed to complete destruction. From the moment the bro-kers got together there was a steady outpouring of shaky and timid operators were incapable of realsting this fresh decline, the downward movement was ned with their frightened contributions to the falling market. When prices were at their lowest "bears" began to rally the market, and the purchases for the completion of speculative contracts threatened to lead to as wild a scene among the 'shorts" as had just been enacted with the "bulls." The Western railway shares suffered most. Lake Shore tumbled to 91%, Rock Island to 94 and Northwest to 60%. Even the placed Fort Wayne went off to 93%, while the strongly-held illinois Central eluded the grasp of its friends and sold, some few lots, at 132. Some effort was made to support St. Paul on the theory that Milwaukee will be the Chicago of the immediate future, but it was carried down with the general current, and sold at 54. The excitement was intened when at the first board announcement was made that three failures had occurred, and the lively imagination of most of the crowd readily conjured up innumerable additions to this unhappy trio. The steady demand from the artificial source provided by speculative sales soon told, however, upon the direction, verifying again the advantage of a "short" interest; for had the present speculation on this side of the market it would be difficult to decide the limits of the panic or tell where the embarrassment of the street would have ended. In this sudden reaction the best prices of the day were made. Indeed, with Rock Island at 101 and Lake Snore at 97%, the smile came back to many a haggare face around the railing of the Stock Board, and a faint effort at a cheer was made by ome of those inside the circle. But these price proved illusory. The tide fell again, but rose anon, and its troubled waters were ever unsettled until the oil of calm was poured upon them by the wires from Washington, announcing the probability that deavors to relieve the money market by extra pur-chases of bonds, if, as some extravagantly hoped, he did not even go so far as to issue a portion of the reserve greenbacks entrusted to his discretion for use in monetary emergencies. At least such a brighter hue, and many sagactous "bears" wno were no longer interested in the market gravely coincided in the happy opinion that the worst was over. Moreover, the more cheerful feeling was encouraged by the limitation of to the three houses announced at the first board, particularly as the rising market of the latter portion of the day extricated from a similar misfortune many whose fate was trembling in the balance during the gloomy nours of the forenoon. In view of the importance and interest attaching to the topic we have also devoted special articles to the report of the annual meeting of the Erie other portion of the paper. Two failures are reported from Philadelphia, probably from speculation in Reading, which is largely held in that city and which was a severe sufferer in the panic to-day. The fewness of the faitures under the circumstances is attributed to the large wealth possessed by the leading "bulls" and cliques. Their in this column, that the course of speculation the past three or four months has been steadily against in the market was generally closed out last spring labored like Titans to support the market, but a crisis has overtaken them as unexpected as the be it said that they have borne the financial phiebotomy of the past two days with the courage of heroes. The enormous decline in prices since Saturday, or rather since summer, has swept away twice the profits of the great "bull" campaign of last winter and spring. But they have fulfilled the letter of their contracts with a scrupulosity of honor that goes far to redeem the game of speculation from the opprobrium with which it is popularly

The death of Mr. Harley R. Ludington, one of the United States storekeepers, on the 3d inst., at his late residence, No. 359 Lexington arenue, from the effects of injuries received on the 28th ult., by failing through the hatchway of the bonded warehouse 516 and 518 Washington street, has heretofore been announced in the HERALD. Yesterday Coroner Herrnounced in the Herald. Yesterday Coroner Herrman held an inquest in the case, and from the evidence adduced it appeared that the hatch was unsafe, inasmuch as there was no railing or other protection around it.

After listening to the testimony Coroner Herrman submitted the case to the jury, who found "that deceased came to his death from Eracture or the skull and other injuries, received on the 3sth day of September, 1871, by failing through the hatchway of the bonded warehouse 316 Washington street, of which Messra, Miller & Conger are the lessees, and we consider said Miller & Conger are the lessees, and we consider said Miller & Conger lessering of severe censure for not placing a railing or other safeguard around said hatchway for the prevention of acoldents."

Mr. Ludington was seventy seven and a baif years of age and a native of connecticus.
